After travelling, people with Haemophilia are more susceptible to internal bleeds and will need a quiet and private place to mix and inject their medicine.

500+ delegates living with Haemophilia are travelling from over 60 different countries to attend the World Federation of Haemophilia Congress in Glasgow.

These customers will be carrying in their hand luggage needles and medication they need to inject.

Passengers will require additional seating.

High numbers of customers with mobility issues, with walking sticks or wheelchair requirements.

Haemophilia medication is very expensive, life saving and hugely important to those living with haemophilia, and they will not want to leave it out of their sight.

Please share this information with your airport partners across the UK, airline partners, Security, Customs and Border Control to allow Scotland to be prepared to give an informed and warm Scottish welcome to the international delegates attending the World Federation of Haemophilia in Glasgow.
