THE TENEMENT HOUSE

An authentic time capsule of life in early 20th-century Glasgow. At first glance, the Tenement House appears to be an ordinary middle-class tenement from the late 19th century, standing in Garnethill. However, when you step inside, the faithfully restored four rooms appear as if frozen in time and provide a rare glimpse into life in Glasgow in the early 20th century.

Shorthand typist Miss Agnes Toward lived here from 1911 until 1965 and preserved her furniture and possessions with love and care. She held on to all sorts of things that most people would have thrown away, and this extensive personal archive has become a valuable time capsule for visitors today.

THE HILL HOUSE

Located 20 minutes along the Clyde from Glasgow, The Hill House is considered to be Scottish architect Charles Rennie Mackintosh's domestic masterpiece. Commissioned by Glasgow publisher Walter Blackie, Charles Rennie Mackintosh and his wife, Margaret MacDonald, designed almost everything you can see here, from the building itself to the furniture and textiles. A home to the Blackie family for nearly 50 years, the Hill House has fascinating stories waiting to be discovered.

- Be inspired by the unique building, interiors and collection designed by Charles Rennie Mackintosh and Margaret Macdonald Mackintosh in the 'Glasgow style'.
- Find out about the Blackie family, who called the Hill House their home.
- Ask questions about the Hill House Box and the National Trust for Scotland's pioneering approach to caring for this building.
- Explore inside the Box and see the Hill House and Helensburgh like never before from the walkways around the house and over the roof.
